1 the King (of Rome's) portrait, and think it a good iss. I have pleasure in taking this opportunity to 3s all my satisfaction for the good care that you
)f him.
> Marshal Davout.) On hearing from you to-night 1 move the Guard forward so that if the enemy will or us we can give battle.
h, Dorogobouje:
er throwing up earthworks, batteries, and redoubts,
,fter announcing their intention of holding them, iemy, as usual, have shown the white feather. We >w in this town, which is sizable, that is to say ight or ten churches. The country is good, and j say it remains fertile all the way to Moscow. The 3 excessive, the weather splendid. Reports state iemy are resolved to make a stand at Viazrna.
i, Viazma:
have reached Viazma. The enemy continue their t on Moscow.
tember 1st, Velitchevo. enemy are across the main road in front of the)f Naples and our advance guard. Ghjiatsk: the Prince of Neuch&tel.) My Cousin: Order the of Naples, the Prince of Eckmiihl, the Viceroy, Poniatowski, the Duke of Elchingen, to take a rest, to get in their stragglers, to have a roll-call at n the afternoon, and to let me know precisely the T of men they can place in line, staff is useless; not one of the officers does his duty ly, not the provost-general, nor the quartermaster.